LEXINGTON, KY .- Mr. H. D. Hulett, s weather prognosticator, says his signs indicate another very cold winter. There will be much suffering in this city whether the winter be hard or soft, owing to the want of employment during summer months, and it behooves pur humane societies for the relief of the poor, to organize their forces to anticlpate the demands coming upon them. This is what the Psycho-Philosophic folks

call true religion.
The railroad and omnibus conductors The ratiroad and omnibus conductors report a considerale increase in travel during the past month. This is partly owing to the attractions held out by the several Expositions, which the old fashioned editor of the grandmother Gazette calls impositions.

The members of the Psycho-Philosophical contracts and the properties of the Psycho-Philosophical contracts and the properties of the Psycho-Philosophical contracts and properties of the Psycho-Philosophical contracts and properties of the Psycho-Philosophical contracts are properties of the Psycho-Philosophical contracts and properties of the Psycho-Philosoph

Momentous times are in store for our citizens the coming winter in municipal affairs. The party in possession of the city government will resort to every means but revolution to retain for themselves or friends "the lines in easy places." On the other hand the citizens will watch and resist their encroachments to the last minute. Swindling contractors on the Cincinnati Southern railroad are committing sine that cry to beaven for vengeance, viz: defrauding laborers of their wages. Society should demand that these absconding vagalaborers of their wages. Society should demand that these absconding vagabonds be brought to justice. The rings in the City Council and the Poor and Work-house, now called the Rich Playhouse, are not the only rings that exist among our old-time movers. We have a ring among the doctors, another among the lawyers. These professional circles among our cid-time movers. We have a ring among the doctors, another among the lawyers. These professional circles are for the purpose of ruling out or keeping down any master spirit that dare hang out his shingle. Then there is the social ring, the most despotic of them all. The newspaper profession is the only one exempt from the control or influence of these Chinese-like associations, whose actions tend to make the grass grow upon our streets and close up every avenue to honest employment.

The Christian Church in Keutucky is very popular and its membership quite numerous. Its members in this city are not like their liberal brethren in other parts of the State. Here they are divided and hopelessly unfriendly. This breach would not concern our citizens much were it not for the damaging influence of these feuds upon the prosperity of our great University, the very pride of Kentuckians.

The Star Quoit Club has increased in numbers and interest. These gentlemen of teisure daily resort to Colonei Gratz's grove for practice. They present the appearance of a set of men who are too well fed and not worked enough.

Colonel Cliff. Carr, the youngest and brightest attorney at the Lexington bar, and also the best historian among his compeers, has been importuned to write an account of the Siege of Lexington during the late war.

The temperance cause is steadily growing in Lexington. This is due mostly to hard times.

The scarlet fever is prevailing among children in this city. The physicians are keeping this important information as secretly as possible. They should be compelled to report every case of conta compelled to report every case of conta-gious disease to the Mayor, in order to have the children of families where the disease exists excluded from the schools for the time being. This is the law in Cov-ington and Newport, where it is rigidly enforced.

We have in this city a University book-store, a University newspaper and a University church. Between all these cooks the broth is spoiled and the Kentucky University with it.

A new of the well-meaning portion of our young men lately made efforts to establish a branch of the Young Men's Christain Association. But after corresponding with these associations in Louisville and Cincinnati it was found too expensive an undertaking for the few expensive an undertaking for the few friends of the enterprise in this city. They established instead a Young Meu's Prayer-meeting, to meet every Sunday afternoon for religious exercises at some one of the Evangelical churches. Louisville is the only pince in Kentucky where the Young Men's Christian Assaclation exists.

The Daily Press is bolstering up the claims of Hon. James B. Beck for U. S. Benstor, to succeed Senator Stevenson, whose term is expiring. The Press has been unfortunate with its candidates. Governor Leslie's Ku-kinx reputation, with his Statesman-like qualities, will enable him to reach Washington and leave Messrs. Beck and Stevenson to practice law at home in our County Courts.

A new Council, it is true, will then be elected, unless the crafty officials prevent it by getting the Legislature to extend the present obnoxious amendment, and thereby keep themselves in power. The new members can not take their seats until March; the old or present Council, in the meantime, will elect the other city officers; so that, when the new members cam; in, there will be little for them to do in the way of reform. This state of things will cause a grand combination among all city officers to receive the present unpopular City touncilmen, who, as a body, no one likes, except their appointees.

DETECTIVES MEAD and Woodyard last night arrested a man named H. P. Butler, charged with the larceny of a gold watch and chain, worth $30, from T. B. Ikbinson. The latter was asleep at Hoffman's salcon, on Fith street, day before yesterday, when the watch was taken out of his pocket. Mead and Woodyard were informed that a man named Wilkinson had purchased a watch answering a description from that taken from Robinson. Wilkinson, who was found at the description from that taken from Robinson. Wilkiuson, who was found at the National theater, explained that he bought a pawn ticket for the watch for five dollars, and afterward redeemed the watch at Frank Emith's pawn office, paying eleven dollars for it. He stated that Butler went with him to the bar of the steamer Ashland, and while he was exhibiting some goid coins, which were ali marked, Butler stole one from him.
When searched at the Station last right the coin was found upon him. He was arraigned in the Police Court on two charges of petit larceny and convicted on both. Each case brought him a sentence of thirty days and a fine of $50.
Robinson got his watch back, and Butler
his gold dollar, but the latter was minus
the eleven dollars paid to the pawnbroker.

There will be a very interesting game of base-ball this afternoon on the Walnut Hills ball grounds, between the Walnut Hills Club and the Indian Hill nine. Both clubs are cracks among amateurs, and a very fine game is anticipated. The Walnut Hills have deleated many of the best nines in this community, and are fast gaining an envious reputation for themselves.
The Cincinnati Reds and the Philadelphias will play the second game of their series this alternoon on the new grounds. "Both nines feel confident of getting away with their opponents," we are told, which reminds us very forcibly of the sad late or the Kilkenny cats. Amusements.

WOOD'S THEATER.-The "Naiad Queen" was the attraction last evening at this popular place of amusement. The house was crowded by a very admiring audience was crowded by a very admiring audience who expressed their approbation by frequent bursts of appliause. The play itself is of the same style as the "Black Crook," being in a measure related to it, and consequently furnishes a fine opportunity for people with more legs than brains to distinguish themselves.

The latter perform the parts very well, however, and the "Naiad Queen" runs as smoothly as any play of that kind that has been put upon our boards for some time. Miss Pauline Merritt is as beautiful as any spirit of the dark blue waters could wish to be. "Schnapps," Mr. John Marble, was also beautiful, but his beauty lies in his wit. The dancing of Bonianti and Cora Adriana was excellent, the former being one of the most lithe and graceful dancers that we have ever seen. The "Naiad Queen?" will run one week longer, when it will give way to the "Two Orphans." Matinee to-day at 2 c'clock.
